

September 2009

We started school last week and we are doing great. Paul is in Arizona for a week and things are going well for him so far. I (Shari) spent Aug. 17-19 in the hospital with an infection in my incision. The IV antibiotics did their work so I was able to avoid more surgery. I still have open places on the incision, so continue to pray that it will soon heal completely.

This month we thought we would show you some photos of some of the people we work with here in El Paso. We thank God for these special people

In His Service,
